BAX Consulting Dragons attempt victory again by using the means they have

Al Ain Times News:

Al Ain 6th October, 2010:

BAX Consulting Dragons are coming from the Al Ain desert to take part in Abu Dhabi's International Dragon Boat Festival on the 8th/9th October at Shangri La beach in Abu Dhabi. The team delivered a great performance earlier in April at the Dubai International Dragon Boat festival and is practicing again in an untraditional way of training: practising paddling in Al Ain's rugby stadium's bleachers and at pool side with brooms and mops.

"Fortune favors bravery! The team has decided that even with a small number of paddlers and a lack of water and paddles to train with, we are going to give it another shot. The paddle session today is essentially 'dry', but we are doing the best we can with the means that we have. The synchronization of goals and motivation are going to bring us success at the races this weekend." says Managing Partner of BAX Consulting, Jennifer Baxavanis. BAX Consulting Dragons are the true "desert" team of this weekend's Festival.

Team captain, Walter Cramerstetter, resides in Al Ain. BAX Consulting FZ LLE is established in Dubai.

BAX Consulting FZ LLE provides consultative services in training, coaching and development allowing companies to become more profitable and training employees to be more productive. The main services on offer are sales training, customer service training, and market development consultancy.

Boot Camp starts 2nd session

Al Ain Times News:

The 1st outdoor fitness Boot Camp in Al Ain has announced that the 2nd session of Boot Camp started last week with 18 sports enthusiasts after the success of its 1st session that includes only 15 individuals.

It is planned that the 3rd session will start on 31st October after the success of the previous two sessions.

The Race for an Emirati F1 star has begun AARKC Championship 2010-2011

Al Ain Times News:

Al Ain Raceway hosted the first round of the 2010/2011 UAE National Karting Series on Friday and, with grid numbers bigger than last year, the proof of Motorsport fever is clear. The UAE is vying to provide the Formula 1 world stage with a driver of its own and at Al Ain Raceway the future candidates made their cases.

In the DD2 class, reigning Champion Mohammed Al Dhaheri continued his excellent form from last season by taking victory in both the Pre-final and Grand final. His victory however was hard earned as his two nearest rivals Sheikh Khalid Al Nahyan and Ali Al Darmaki were right on his tail. With the karts capable of reaching speeds of 140 kph the crowd watched nervously as the competitors snaked around the world class circuit. After the race, a very modest Mohammed appeared very grateful for his victory "I had to push harder than ever before today" he said. "Khalid and Ali were right behind me in all of the races and they were not prepared to let me have an easy ride! I feel fortunate that I held on to win, as any one of the three of us could have been triumphant today".

In the Senior Max class, Maurits Knopjes found himself under attack by Senior new-comer Sanad Al Rawahi. Sanad raced in the Junior class last year and, in a grid of 20 drivers, found himself leading the assault on the incumbent Champion. Sanad, racing for the Oman Karting Team, acquitted himself like a true professional and raced Maurits hard and fair to the line. For his first time out in the biggest field in which he has ever competed at this level he was more than thrilled with his second place finish. "I pushed Maurits hard today as I want him to know I am here and mean business! We were neck-to-neck across the finish line, I think only 0.4 seconds, so my confidence is really high for this year".

Paul Woodfield was the leading MAX Master

(32yrs+) finishing 4th overall with a fine battling display.

The Junior Max class also provided the crowds with a fine display of kart control and competitive racing. Abdullah Al Rawahi and Ameer Hassan lead 1-2 for the most part and, after an intense 12 lap final, it was Oman Karting Team's Abdullah who claimed the all-important victory. Abdullah was overjoyed by his result, "It is great to get my Championship underway with a win. I drove a hard race today against Ameer and Piers [Pakenham-Walsh]. It was very close but I feel I deserved it."

This was the first of a 12 round Championship that runs across the UAE from its Al Ain Raceway Headquarters, and as the season progresses and more drivers enter, the picture of who is likely to be the Middle East's first Motor-racing superstar will become a lot clearer.
